Los Alamos
NATIONAL LABORATORY

Charter

The main purpose of the Asian American Diversity Working Group is to provide information, assistance, and advice to the Diversity Office Director on issues associated with the under utilization of Asian Americans. Membership of the Working Group will be drawn from a broad number of Laboratory divisions/programs and from all job classifications. The Diversity Office has facilitating responsibility and will provide staff support as available.

The Asian American Diversity Working Group will address diversity issues that include, but are not limited to, recruitment, mentoring, career development and advancement, education outreach, educational opportunities, and Asian Pacific American National Month activities (which take place annually in May). As a champion of the Laboratory's affirmative action program, the Diversity Office views the Asian American Diversity Working Group as an excellent resource for increasing communication on systemic issues that impact the Laboratory's diversity and affirmative action objectives.
